

HOW TO SPEAK Gen Z

The alphabet according to Generation Z [Born 1995 - 2009]

Aa

is for

AY

Used at the end of a sentence to indicate it's a question.

Bb

is for

BROMANCE

Male friendship – old school speak for mateship.

Cc

is for

CRAY CRAY

When life is way way too crazy for one word.

Dd

is for

DEFS

Well it's easier than spelling definately... definately... definitely... see why we shorten?

Ee

is for

EMOTICON

How else do you say (@_@) 😞 or d(^_^)b 😊 ?

Ff

is for

FAIL

Used with or without EPIC to describe anything not a win. (See W for more info)

Gg

is for

G e.g. "Whazzap G?" because gangstas can't spell and neither can people who talk to gangstas.

Hh

is for

HARRO!!

The new hello, said with a touch of Swedish tourist.

Ii

is for

I

Because I am the centre of everything (and there is an i in everything!).

Jj

is for

jks

With media multitasking who has the time to spell jokes?

Kk

is for

kgo

I mean why write ok, go when you can write kgo?!

Ll

is for

lms [ my status]

Another way of asking for some attention.

Mm

is for

MYBAD!

Used instead of saying sorry – but at least we're taking ownership.

Nn

is for

NO

Generally said to people in authority.

Oo

is for

ONESIE

The old/new pyjamas that love to feature in 'night-at-home' selfies (See S).

Pp

is for

PROBS

What the older gens probs call probably.

Qq

is for

QT

A more economical way of spelling cutie.

Rr

is for

RANDOM

Can be randomly used as a random response to almost anything.

Ss

is for

SELFIES

A photo taken by you, of you, featuring you (see I for more info).

Tt

is for

TOTES

Used to show agreement quicker than a Gen Y can say totally.

Uu

is for

UNFOLLOW

What you do when someone posts too many food photos on Instagram.

Vv

is for

V

V means very, which is a v quick typing solution for our v busy lives.

Ww

is for

WIN!

Used to describe anything good (although being "a real winner" isn't good - make sense?).

Xx

is for

XOXOX

Used to end any text - Boomers, you would say Yours Sincerely.

Yy

is for

YOLO [you only live once]

The excuse for reckless living.

Zz

is for

ZED!

Hey, that's us – the now generation. (see I, L, S for more info)