Trends in Gen Alpha names

Each year Australia's states and territories publish the top names given to babies in the previous year. McCrindle then collates this data, analyses it, and discerns the nation-wide trends.

Analysing baby names at any point in history paints a fascinating picture of that era. The Builders generation (born before 1945) chose traditional names such as Peter, Paul, John, Karen, Jennifer, or Sharon for their children. In the 1980s, the Baby Boomers began drawing on baby name books for inspiration and trends. Meanwhile, today's parents, Generation Y (also known as the Millennials), are not only choosing new and different names but are also parenting a new and unique generation – Generation Alpha.

Generation Alpha describes the generation born since 2010 – the most digital, global, and visual generation on the planet. When they have all been born (2025), they will number almost two billion – the largest generation in the history of the world

Oliver and Charlotte top the ranks

Oliver continues its place as the most popular boys name for over a decade and is the most popular name overall in Australia by a significant margin. In fact, it is the only name on both lists to have over 2,000 occurrences. After falling to second place in 2021, Charlotte makes its way back to the top as Australia's most popular name for baby girls.

Trends in Gen Alpha names

The data highlights that some names have maintained their popularity, while some have become even more common, and others have begun to phase out.

- Classic names are still popular for baby boys and girls
- Shorter names are more common for boys

Who is Generation Alpha?

Generation Alpha refers to the current generation of children who began being born in the year 2010. Children of Millennials, and often the younger siblings of Generation Z, there are more than 2.8 million of this generation born globally every week.

Why we decided to name them Generation Alpha

Over a decade ago, it became apparent to Mark McCrindle that a new generation was about to commence, and there was no name for them. So, the McCrindle team tested what Australians thought the next generation should be called. Many suggested Generation A, having come to the end of the alphabet with Generation Z. Generation Alpha, however, represents a whole new generation, born in a new century. Going back to the beginning didn't feel right for this next generation.

So, in keeping with this scientific nomenclature of using the Greek alphabet in lieu of the Latin and having worked through Generations X, Y and Z, it was settled on the next cohort being Generation Alpha – not a return to the old, but the start of something new.

Generic labels rather than descriptive ones are likely to last. A label like Generation X, Generation Z or Generation Alpha provides a blank canvas on which a generation can create their own identity, rather than having a descriptive label, relevant for just a segment of the cohort or for a period of time pinned on them.

This generation are the first to be entirely born in the 21st century. They are not a return to the old, but the start of something new. Using this reasoning and drawing on the scientific nomenclature of turning to the Greek alphabet, we decided to name them Generation Alpha.

The influences shaping Generation Alpha

Generation Y are the parents of Generation Alpha, and this generation of parents are tech-savvy in and of themselves. Traditional marketing or advertising has shifted to inspiring Millennial parents using channels such as social media and podcasts. While parents play an important role in protecting and guiding their children, Generation Alpha are operating in spaces free of parental influencers. This generation has access to technology and platforms that their parents don't even understand. In many cases, children are making their own decisions and even guiding their parents. They have ownership, authority, and influence in the realms they operate and influence others of their own age.

Coming of age in unprecedented times of change and rapid technological advancement, Generation Alpha is part of an unintentional global experiment where screens are placed in front of them from the youngest age as pacifiers, entertainers, and educational aids. This great screen age has bigger impacts on the generation exposed to such screen saturation during their formative years. From shorter attention spans to the gamification of education, increased digital literacy to impaired social formation, Generation Alpha is the first generation to be entirely born in the 21st century.

A positive outlook for their future

Generation Alpha are being shaped in different times to generations past. They are more digital, global, mobile, social, and visual than any generation before them. There's no doubt that Generation Alpha will come up against their own challenges, storm clouds, and uncertainty. Their future, however, is bright, and like every other generation, they will find the tools they need to thrive in it.

The future for Generation Alpha is exciting – full of creativity, innovation, and opportunity. They're not only following the positive examples set by older generations, but are also empowered to take action, stand up for what they believe in, and pave a new way forward.

9	Charlie	1,230
10	Luca	1,131

Oliver continues decade-long run on top

Oliver tops the most popular boys name in Australia for the tenth year in a row. Oliver is also the most popular name overall – the only name to occur over 2,000 times in 2022.

Theodore makes its debut in the top ten for the first time after consistently climbing the ranks every year since joining the top 100 in 2014. In doing so, Lucas and Thomas end their streak of being in the top ten for over a decade.

Charlotte back on top

Charlotte reclaims the top spot as the most popular girls name in 2022 after being knocked off by Isla in 2021. Olivia continues her streak in the top ten, having been one of only three names (Charlotte, Olivia and Mia) to have featured in the top 10 since 2010.

Unlike the boys, there are no new additions to the top ten girl names in 2022, though the order did have a shakeup in rankings.

Twelve names debuted in the top 100

Twelve names joined the top 100 list for the first time in 2022.

Top 100: Trends for boys

The top 100 list of baby boy names is largely made up of names that have remained popular for decades, such as William (#4), Henry (#5), James (#16), Harry (#18), and George (#25).

Traditionally Christian names are still quite common in Gen Alpha boys, with names like Noah (#2), Thomas (#11), Levi (#13), Elijah (#15), Isaac (#35), Samuel (#43), and Ezra (#57) found throughout the top 100.

When it comes to boys' names, short names are more popular. Out of the top 100 names, 86 are made up of only one or two syllables.

- One-syllable names: Jack (#6), Max (#20), Kai (#28), Finn (#38), Beau (#48)
- Two-syllable names: Noah (#2), Leo (#3), Henry (#5), Hudson (#8), Charlie (#9)

In the top 20, only William, Theodore, and Alexander have more than two syllables – names that are likely to be shortened to Will, Theo, and Alex, in true Aussie fashion.

While there hasn't been a significant shakeup in the most popular boys names, look out for these up and coming names for Gen Alpha boys:

Name	2022 ranking	2017 ranking	2012 ranking	Change in ranking
Luca	10	50	74	↑ 64
Leo	3	12	54	↑ 51
Hugo	26	47	76	↑ 50
George	25	35	71	↑ 46
Hudson	8	19	51	↑ 43

Top 100: Trends for girls

Like the boys, many classic girl names feature in the top 100. Traditional names like Charlotte (#1), Amelia (#2), Matilda (#7), Isabella (#15) and Scarlett (#32) are spread throughout the list.

It is likely that The Royal Family (and popular shows like Bridgerton and The Crown) continue to inspire more regal names for girls, with noble-associated names growing in popularity in recent years.

Where parents of Gen Alpha boys opted for shorter names, parents of baby girls are more open to longer names such as Sienna (#18), Violet (#26), Mackenzie (#57), Harriet (#64), and Aaliyah (#88). Thirty of the top 100 names have three or more syllables.

Name	2022 ranking	2020 ranking (S1 of Bridgerton )	Change in ranking
Maeve	48	86	↑ 38
Pippa	72	100	↑ 28
Daisy	27	47	↑ 20
Aurora	36	53	↑ 17
Eleanor	45	54	↑ 9
Penelope	43	49	↑ 6
Eloise	61	69	↑ 8

Girl names are still very rooted in nature-inspired names, such as Willow (#10), Ivy (#13), Daisy (#27), Poppy (#40), and Eden (#75).

Parents are also more open to a more unique spelling of traditional names, as they hope to have their girls stand out.

- Sofia / Sophia
- Amelia / Emilia
- Holly / Hallie

Look out for these fast-rising names for Gen Alpha girls:

Name	2022	2017	2012	Change in rank over the last ten years
Ellie	28	41	67	↑ 39
Violet	26	37	60	↑ 34
Willow	10	20	40	↑ 30
Olive	63	100	90	↑ 27
Eloise	61	64	86	↑ 25

Millennial parents breaking traditional norms

Increasingly popular gender-neutral names

Across the top 100 for both boys and girls, gender-neutral names are becoming increasingly popular, with names like Charlie, Riley, Jordan, Jesse, Casey, Morgan, Jamie, and Taylor spread throughout the list. This reflects a cultural shift in Millennial parents, breaking down traditional gender norms often found in the naming process.

Boys

Rank	Boy variation
1	Oliver
15 / 68	Elijah / Eli
18	Harry
66	Billy
73	Remy
74	Charles
119	Maverick

Boy/girl variations are becoming a trend

In addition to gender-neutral names, it is becoming more common for a traditionally boy or girl name to be spelled differently for their child.

Girls

Rank	Girl variation
4	Olivia / Olive
28	Ellie / Eliana
39	Billie
47	Remi
48	Maeve
64	Harriet
78	Charlie

Popular culture still influences baby names

Popular culture has always played a significant part in shaping a generation. It's unsurprising then, that Gen Y parents have been inspired to name their children based on the content, popular personalities, and experiences that have shaped them.

Rank	Name	Pop culture reference
3	Leo	Leonardo DiCaprio
4	Liam	Liam Neeson, Liam Payne
9 / 78	Charlie (boys) / Charlie (girls)	Charlie and the Chocolate Factory, Charlie's Angels
10	Willow	Will and Jada Pinkett Smith's daughter
11	Lily	Harry Potter character
12	Archie	Royal Family, Riverdale
18	Harry	Harry Potter, Harry Styles
20	Sophie	Game of Thrones actress, Sophie Turner
29	Xavier	Professor from X-Men
29	Audrey	Audrey Hepburn
31	Mason	Kourtney Kardashian's son
31	Luna	Harry Potter character
36	Aurora	Disney Princess

80	Rose	Titanic character
83	Phoebe	Phoebe Buffay
93	Ariana	Ariana Grande
93	Connor	Succession character, Connor Roy; UFC Fighter, Conor McGregor
94	Margot	Margot Robbie

International names reflecting a multicultural society

Many of the most popular names for are originally rooted in another ethnic culture. Out of the combined top 200 names, at least 89 can be traced to having come from a non-English background, ultimately reflecting Australia's increasingly culturally diverse population.

Rank	Name	Cultural origin
3	Leo	Italian
28	Kai	Hawaiian
29	Xavier	Spanish
36	Ethan	Hebrew
38	Finn	Irish
59	Muhammad	Arabic
77	Gabriel	Hebrew

Rank	Name	Cultural origin
2	Amelia	Latin/German
6	Ava	Latin
7	Matilda	German
16	Chloe	Greek
22	Mila	Slavik
24	Sophia	Greek
38	Zara	Arabic

Traditionally English names are still very much popular in Australia, such as Jack (#6), William (#4), James (#16), and George (#25). The three fastest-growing boy names over the last decade, however, are non-English (Luca, Leo, and Hugo). Other names that have made big leaps in recent years include Kai (#28 in 2022, #55 in 2017, #61 in 2012) and Ezra (#57 in 2022, only joining the top 100 in 2019).

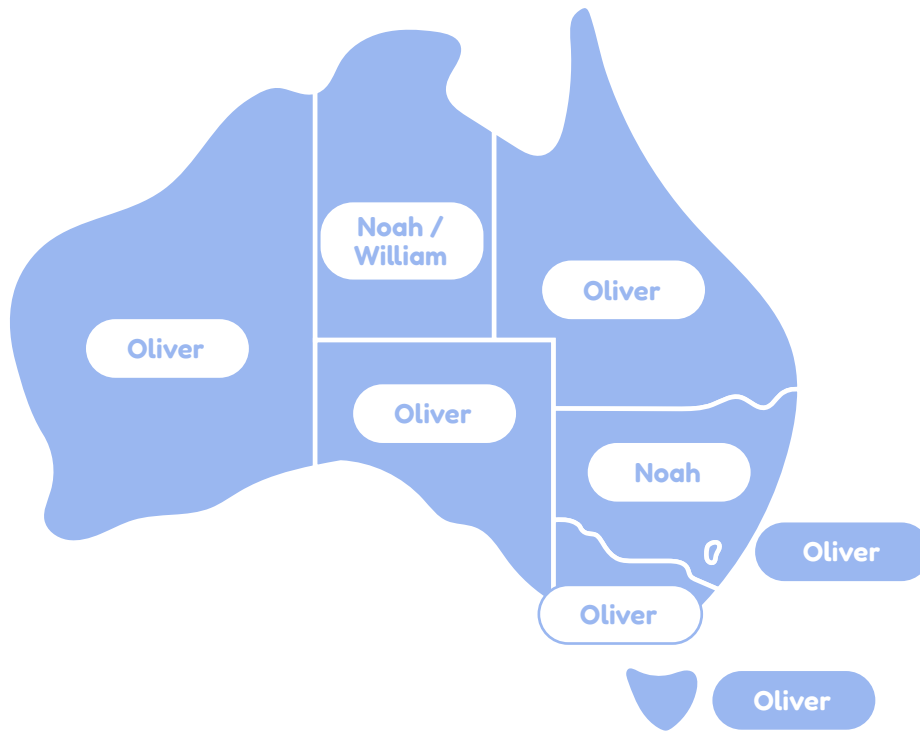

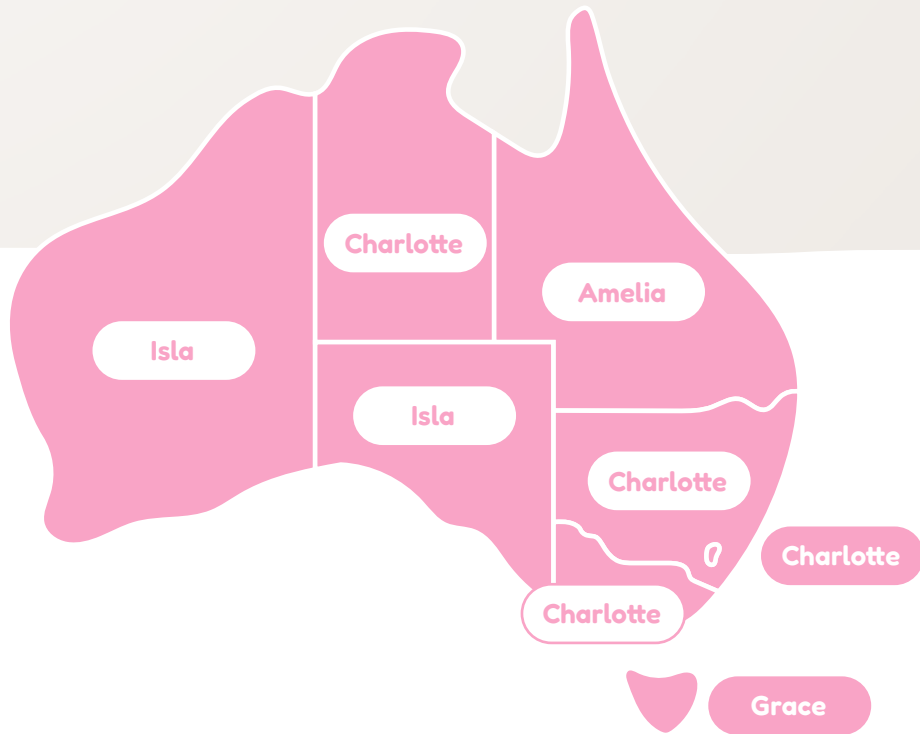

Similar trends are seen for girl names, though not to the same extent as boys. Freya, originating from Scandinavia, ranked #44 in 2022 and has jumped 22 spots from #66 in 2017; Remi, originally French, ranked #47 in 2022 and was still outside the top 100 until three years ago; Ava, not a stranger to the top ten, originated from Latin roots.

When considering the list of multicultural names, girls are more likely to have a Latin-rooted name, while boy names seem to have a more culturally diverse origin.

New additions to NSW's top 10

For the baby boys, Luca and Charlie join NSW's top ten for the first time. While for the girls, Sienna and Willow make their debut.

Classic names are still popular

The traditional boy and girl names appear prominently on this list. Gen Alpha parents in NSW have chosen the likes of Oliver, William, Henry, Charlotte, and Olivia – the tried and tested names that have been popular for generations.

Short and sweet for the boys

Reflecting the national trend, one or two-syllable names are common for baby boys in NSW. Even the longer names are likely to be nicknamed – Oliver ('Ollie'), William ('Will'), Theodore ('Theo'), and Thomas ('Tom').

'A' and 'L' are common

Parents of Gen Alpha girls seem to have a preference for names that end with an 'A', such as Amelia, Sienna, and Mia. Similarly, these parents also prefer a strong 'L' in the name of their babies, as reflected in Luca, Leo, Willow, and Ella.

Rising ranks in SA

Archie, Luca, and Matilda cracked the top ten most popular names in South Australia for the first time. For Luca, it has been a relatively quick rise, leaping up the ranks from #52 in 2018 to #8 in 2022, while for Matilda, it has been a slow and steady journey, going from #19 to #17, #13, #12 and finally hitting #8 in 2022.

Oliver reigns as the top name for baby boys for another year, while Isla narrowly beats Charlotte.

Old-fashioned names in fashion

In South Australia, parents prefer giving their children old-fashioned names, such as Henry, Archie, William, Charlotte, Olivia, and Matilda – indicating a trend that vintage is still in vogue.

'A's all around

South Australian parents reflect the national trend of preferring a heavy 'A' in their daughter's name, as found in Ella, Matilda, and Mia.

Tasmania full of Grace

Tasmania is the only state where Grace tops the list of the most popular girl names. It's also the only state to feature Elsie in their top ten list.

Classical names remain popular

Tassie parents still appreciate the classics, commonly naming their children Oliver, Henry, George, Charlotte, and Harper.

Nature-inspired names

In addition to the classics, baby girls in Tasmania are still very much inspired by nature, reflected in Willow, Hazel, and Daisy being extremely popular.

Names ending in 'y' and 'ie'

Parents in Tasmania seem to really appreciate names ending in 'y' and 'ie', such as Archie, Charlie, Elsie, Henry, and Ruby.

New additions to the top ten

In comparison to the other states and territories, WA has the most top ten debutants in 2022. Lily, Ivy, Mila, Theodore, Henry, Levi, and Luca were all introduced to the top ten for the first time.

WA likes it short and sweet

The short and sharp names are quite popular out west, with only four of the top names having more than two syllables.

Biblical boy names

Western Australia is giving the City of Churches and SA a run for their money, with many of the most popular boys names being traditionally rooted in Christianity, including Noah, Thomas, Levi, and James.

'L' and 'A' for the girls

The most popular girl names in WA are heavy on the 'L' and 'A' sounds. Parents in WA also appreciate an elegant name, with most of the girl names tending to finish with a vowel.

Northern Territory has a distinct list

Unlike the rest of the country, Oliver does not feature in the top ten baby names at all, with Noah and William ranking as the most popular boy names.

Unique and trendy names in NT

Interestingly, Gen Alpha in the Northern Territory features names that don't appear in the other states, like Xavier, Frankie, and Sadie. Parents of Gen Alpha seem to opt for more unique names.

Short and sharp

Many of the names for both boys and girls are short and have two syllables, such as Noah, Jack, James, Max, Ava, and Grace. Several of the boy names also have a strong "L" sound, as found in Levi, Michael, William, and Oliver.

GENERATION ALPHA

From renowned social researchers Mark McCrindle and Ashley Fell come the insights and answers we need to help our switched-on, 21st-century kids thrive.

Generation Alpha are the most globally connected generation of children ever. For parents, teachers and leaders looking for guidance on how to raise their children, worried if their kids are spending too much time on screens, concerned about how global trends are impacting them and wondering how to prepare them for a world where they will live longer and work later, this is the book you need.

The book covers:

- Understanding and empowering this generation
- The significance of technology
- How to get education right for them and the future of work
- Their consumer habits and their role as influencers
- Where and how this generation will live as adults
- The importance of mental and physical wellbeing
- What their future looks like
